Dear Cabinet Secretary,

I write concerning what appears to be an appalling catalogue of unprosecuted wildlife crimes on Leadhills Estate. The link below takes you to an article about RSPB video evidence showing obvious criminal activity which allegedly has not been prosecuted because the owners of the Estate have failed to co-operate with the police. Surely that is a crime in itself?

The article also contains links to reports of several other alleged incidents of wildlife crime on the same Estate.

What is reported in this article makes a mockery of Government statements about cracking down on wildlife crime.

I would appreciate it if you could look into this matter and tell me why Leadhills Estate appears to be immune from prosecution.

Yours sincerely,

John F. Robins,
Animal Concern
