Dear Mr. Reid,

I write concerning the UK made Netflix movie "Christmas on Mistletoe Farm". A scene involving a dog chasing sheep has been criticised by the CEO of the UK National Sheep Association. I have only watched a very short clip of the scene and it does concern me.

I come from a farming community where I've seen the aftermath of dogs attacking sheep.

Some Animal Concern supporters care for sheep. In the last few years two of them have had animals mauled and killed by out of control dogs.

If it is not already in place could a warning be given at the end of the film (perhaps both in voice over and titles) along the lines of. "To avoid worrying sheep and other animals please keep dogs on a lead and under control when near farms."?

Yours sincerely,

John F. Robins,
Animal Concern
